CASE NO. 07-CV-08336-RGK-AFM
(Hon. R. Gary Klausner)

PLAINTIFFS' NOTICE OF MOTION AND UNOPPOSED MOTION FOR FINAL APPROVAL OF CLASS ACTION SETTLEMENT; MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

[Proposed Order, Proposed Judgment, and Declarations of Stanley D. Saltzman and Emilio
Cofinco filed concurrently herewith]

Date: February 11, 2019
Time: 9:00 a.m.
Room: 850
Trial: February 19, 2019

1 TO: ALL PARTIES HEREIN AND TO THEIR COUNSEL OF RECORD:

2 PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on February 11, 2019, at 9:00 a.m. or as soon
3 thereafter as the matter can be heard in Courtroom No. 850 in the above entitled courthouse 4 located at 255 Temple Street, Los Angeles, California, Plaintiffs Gerardo Ortega and 5 Michael Patton, on their own behalf, and on behalf of the proposed settlement class, will 6 move for an order granting final approval of a class-wide settlement reached with 7 Defendant J.B. Hunt Transport, Inc. (“Defendant”). Defendant does not oppose this 8 Motion.

9 However, the parties jointly request that the Court only tentatively grant final 10 approval of the settlement on the date of the fairness hearing, and delay entry of the order 11 granting final approval until the 90-day notice period required by the Class Action Fairness 12 Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1715(d) elapses on April 16, 2019, as the notice was inadvertently not 13 issued until January 16, 2018. On April 17, 2019, the parties will jointly file a notice
14 apprising the Court whether any State or Federal official has responded to the CAFA 15 Notice, and if not, entry of the final approval order will be appropriate.

16 This Motion is based upon this Notice, the accompanying Memorandum of Points 17 & Authorities, the declarations of Stanley D. Saltzman, the pleadings and papers on file in 18 this action, any matters of which the Court may take judicial notice, and upon such further 19 evidence, both documentary and oral, as may be presented at the hearing of said motion.

1 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS & AUTHORITIES

2 I. INTRODUCTION

3 Plaintiffs Gerardo Ortega and Michael Patton (“Plaintiffs”), individually and on 4 behalf of the conditionally certified settlement class, seek this Court’s final approval of 5 the non-reversionary settlement in the amount of $15,000,000.00 (“Settlement”), Dkt. No.
6 247-2, which this Court preliminarily approved on November 28, 2018. Dkt. No. 352.
7 Defendant J.B. Hunt Transport, Inc. (“Defendant”) does not oppose this motion.

8 Plaintiffs are pleased to inform the Court that:

- 9
- 10 • The settlement administrator mailed class notice to 12,141 settlement class 11 members. Out of the total mailing, only 1,748 were originally returned due to 12 out of date or incorrect addresses;
 - 13 • The settlement administrator was able to trace and locate updated addresses for 14 1,648 of the returned notices, all of which were re-mailed per the terms of the 15 Settlement Agreement, and an additional 82 notices were forwarded by the Post 16 Office;
 - 17 • At the conclusion of the mandated notice mailing process, only 135 class notice 18 mailings (1.1%) were returned as undeliverable with no forwarding address, an 19 extraordinary result given the length of the class period;
 - 20 • There were no objections to the Settlement; and
 - 21 • Only nine (9) settlement class members out of the total universe of 12,141 22 settlement class members validly opted-out of the Settlement, representing an 23 astonishingly low 0.07% of the settlement class.

24 In short, the results reveal that the class notice process was extraordinarily 25 successful and that the settlement class members have overwhelmingly endorsed the 26 Settlement.

27 The Settlement provides that Defendant will pay $15,000,000.00 to settle the claims 28 of the settlement class defined as:

2 All California-based, local and regional intermodal and local and 3 regional Dedicated Contract Services drivers employed by J.B.
4 Hunt at any time between November 19, 2003 and December 8, 5 2018.

6 Since the settlement is non-reversionary, the entire $15,000,000.00 will be 7 distributed as provided in the Settlement Agreement preliminarily approved by the Court.
8 Importantly, no claim forms were required of any settlement class member, so if the Court 9 grants final approval of the Settlement, the Settlement Administrator will automatically 10 mail payments to all of the settlement class members other than the nine (9) who elected 11 to opt out of the settlement class.

12 An objective evaluation of the Settlement confirms that it is fair, reasonable and 13 adequate. The Parties negotiated the Settlement at arm's length under the guidance of 14 Mark Rudy, Esq., a well-regarded mediator specializing in resolving wage and hour class 15 actions. Mr. Rudy stewarded the parties through two separate mediations and multiple 16 follow-up discussions with counsel for the parties. The parties agreed to the Settlement on 17 September 7, 2018, after the pretrial conference and only eighteen days before the trial 18 date. As set forth thoroughly in Plaintiffs' Motion for Preliminary Approval, Dkt. No. 347, 19 and Plaintiffs' pending Motion for Attorneys' Fees, Costs, and Incentive Awards, Dkt. No.
20 356, the case was investigated and extensively litigated for eleven years prior to the parties 21 ultimately agreeing to the settlement now before the Court.

22 The Settlement provides settlement class members with valuable relief for their 23 claims, particularly when viewed in light of the Court's order decertifying the class shortly 24 before trial. This substantial settlement wholly eliminates the downside risk of Defendant 25 prevailing on any one of several case-dispositive legal defenses at trial or on appeal, the 26 risk that the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals would affirm the Court's order decertifying 27 the class, and the risk that legislation or regulatory action would eliminate Plaintiffs' 28

1 claims.¹

2 In sum, the Settlement meets the criteria for final approval, as it easily falls within 3 the range of what courts consider fair, reasonable, and adequate. Accordingly, Plaintiffs 4 respectfully request that the Court grant final approval of the Settlement.

5 II. THE CLASS NOTICE PROCESS WAS SUCCESSFULLY IMPLEMENTED

6 A. Dissemination of Class Notice

7 The Court appointed CPT Group, Inc. as the Settlement Administrator, and it has 8 provided the Court with a full report of its activities. See Declaration of Emilio Cofinco 9 (“Cofinco Decl.”), Dkt. No. 358-2. Specifically, the Settlement Administrator complied 10 with this Court’s orders concerning dissemination of class notice Id. at ¶¶2-11; operated a 11 toll-free telephone number for settlement class members to call with inquiries concerning 12 the Settlement, and created and operated a website that contained the Settlement details 13 along with relevant documents. Id. at ¶¶3-4, 15-16.

14 Additionally, Plaintiffs provided notice of the proposed settlement to the California 15 Department of Labor and Workforce Development (“LWDA”) pursuant to Labor Code § 16 2699(1). Saltzman Decl., Dkt. No. 358-1, ¶3.

17 B. Plaintiffs’ Motion for Attorneys’ Fees, Costs, and Incentive Awards

18 Class Counsel filed their Motion for Attorneys’ Fees, Costs, and Incentive Awards 19 on December 28, 2018, which was two weeks before the January 11, 2019 20 objection/exclusion deadline. See Dkt. No. 356. This conforms to the requirements of the 21 Ninth Circuit as set forth in In re Mercury Interactive Corp. Sec. Litig., 618 F.3d 988, 993 22

23 ¹ In fact, on December 21, 2018, the U.S. Department of Transportation’s Federal Motor 24 Carrier Safety Administration issued an Order finding that the Motor Carrier Safety Act of 25 1984 preempts California’s meal and rest break laws. See [https://www.fmcsa.dot.gov/
26 regulations/californias-meal-and-rest-break-rules-preemption-determination](https://www.fmcsa.dot.gov/regulations/californias-meal-and-rest-break-rules-preemption-determination). The legality 27 of that recent Order will now be the subject of many court challenges, which will include 28 the issue of whether or not, even if the new order is found to be legal, it could ever apply retroactively. However, the Order illustrates the legislative and regulatory risks presented by further litigation of the case.

1 (9th Cir. 2010). The Settlement Administrator posted the motion and the supporting 2 documents to the settlement website that same day. Cofinco Decl., Dkt. No. 358-2, ¶16.

3 C. There Were No Objections, and Only Nine Exclusion Requests

4 No settlement class members objected to the settlement, and the Settlement 5 Administrator only received nine valid exclusion requests. Cofinco Decl., Dkt. No. 358-
6 2, ¶¶12, 14. For a settlement class of over 12,000 people, this is an exceptionally low 7 number representing a 99.93% participation rate by the settlement class, and speaks very 8 favorably to the response of the settlement class to the Settlement.

9 D. Challenges to Employment History/Information Requests

10 As of the deadline to file disputes related to the assigned number of workweeks 11 listed on a settlement class member's individually-tailored notice, only three class 12 members have submitted such disputes to the Settlement Administrator. The Settlement 13 Administrator has replied to each dispute. For one of the disputes, Defendant confirmed 14 that its records are accurate, and for the other two, the settlement class members did not 15 state the number of disputed workweeks or provide supporting documentation. As of this 16 date, the Settlement Administrator is awaiting further replies, which are due by January 17 24, 2019. Cofinco Decl., Dkt. No. 358-2, ¶13. The Settlement Administrator will continue 18 to work on these two remaining workweek disputes according to the terms of the 19 Settlement Agreement.

20 E. Class Member Contacts with the Settlement Administrator

21 The availability of the toll-free telephone number (used by more than 350 callers)
22 and the Settlement website enhanced the effectiveness of the notice procedures 23 implemented for this action. Cofinco Decl., Dkt. No. 358-2, ¶¶3-4, 15-16.

24 III. THE SETTLEMENT EXCEEDS THE STANDARDS FOR FINAL 25 APPROVAL

26 A. Terms of the Settlement

27 Plaintiffs detailed the terms of the Settlement in their Motion for Preliminary 28 Approval, and again in their pending Motion for Approval of Fees, Costs and Incentive

1 awards. In order to avoid undue duplication, Plaintiffs will not repeat the terms in detail; 2 however, the critical terms are as follows: (a) $15,000,000.00 to be paid for the benefit of 3 the settlement class; (b) the settlement is totally non-reversionary; (c) no claims forms are 4 required of the settlement class members; and (d) 98.9% of the class notice mailings were 5 successfully delivered by mail.

6 The gross recovery per settlement class member is dependent on the length of time 7 they were employed by Defendant. The highest gross individual settlement payment is 8 approximately $11,929.04 and the average individual gross settlement payment is 9 approximately $1,236.40. Cofinco Decl., Dkt No. 358-2, ¶17. After deductions, including 10 employee payroll taxes, the highest net individual settlement payment is approximately 11 $7,168.98 and the average individual net settlement payment is approximately $743.08.
12 Id. That result is impressive in any wage and hour litigation—especially considering that 13 the class was decertified at the time of Settlement—and unquestionably explains the lack 14 of any objections to the Settlement and the miniscule number of opt-outs. The class 15 members await distribution of their settlement funds.

16 The Settlement also includes the following relevant terms: (a) $500,000.00 is 17 allocated to resolve the Private Attorneys General Act (“PAGA”) claims (with 75% to be 18 paid to the LWDA), a significant sum which is well above allocations in other class action 19 settlements; (b) 40% of each Settlement payment is allocated for unpaid wages (with the 20 settlement administrator to withhold employee payroll taxes and submit those taxes to the 21 relevant taxing authorities, with Defendant responsible for playing employer payroll 22 taxes), and 60% is allocated for non-wage damages and interest.

23 Finally, the Settlement’s narrow release provides that the settlement class members’ 24 release in favor of the Defendant and its affiliates is limited to only those claims arising 25 out of the causes of action alleged in the Action, as well as any claim that arises out of the 26 factual allegations actually alleged in the Action. As this Court has previously found, 27 releases are not overly broad where, as here, they only release claims based on the identical 28

1 factual predicate as the underlying the claims. Karam v. Corinthian Colleges Inc., 2017
2 WL 4070889, at *5 (C.D. Cal. 2017); accord Reyn's Pasta Bella, LLC v. Visa USA, Inc., 3 442 F.3d 741, 748 (9th Cir. 2006). However, the individual named Plaintiffs' release is 4 broader, and generally releases all claims against Defendant as part of the broader 5 consideration demanded of them by Defendant, which is included in the calculation of the 6 requested service awards.

7 B. Standard of Review

8 It is well established in the Ninth Circuit that “voluntary conciliation and settlement 9 are the preferred means of dispute resolution.” Officers for Justice v. Civil Svc. Comm’n, 10 688 F.2d 615, 625 (9th Cir. 1982). Class actions readily lend themselves to compromise 11 because of the difficulties of proof, the risks of litigation, and the extended time to 12 resolution. “[T]here is an overriding public interest in settling and quieting litigation,” and 13 this is “particularly true in class action suits.” Van Bronkhorst v. Safeco Corp., 529 F.2d 14 943, 950 (9th Cir. 1976); see also Utility Reform Project v. Bonneville Power Admin., 869 15 F.2d 437, 443 (9th Cir. 1989).

16 In deciding whether to approve a settlement under Rule 23(e), the Court must find 17 that the proposed settlement is “fair, adequate and reasonable.” The district court exercises 18 its sound discretion in approving a settlement. See Torrasi v. Tucson Elec. Power Co., 8 19 F.3d 1370, 1375 (9th Cir. 1993). In exercising its discretion, however, “the court’s 20 intrusion upon what is otherwise a private consensual agreement negotiated between the 21 parties to a lawsuit must be limited to the extent necessary to reach a reasoned judgment 22 that the agreement is not the product of fraud or overreaching by, or collusion between, 23 the negotiating parties, and that the settlement, taken as a whole, is fair, reasonable and 24 adequate to all concerned.” Officers for Justice, 688 F.2d at 625. The Ninth Circuit has 25 clearly defined the limits of the Court’s inquiry:

26 [T]he settlement or fairness hearing is not to be turned into a trial or rehearsal for 27 trial on the merits. Neither the trial court nor this court is to reach any ultimate 28 conclusions on the contested issues of fact and law which underlie the merits of the 1 dispute, for it is the very uncertainty of outcome in litigation and avoidance of 2 wasteful and expensive litigation that induce consensual settlements. The proposed 3 settlement is not to be judged against a hypothetical or speculative measure of what 4 might have been achieved by the negotiators.

4 Id. (emphasis in original).

5 Moreover, the Court’s inquiry into whether a proposed settlement is fair, adequate, 6 and reasonable is relatively less probing where, as here, the parties settle later in the 7 litigation after a class was certified. See Perez v. Tilton, 2006 WL 2433240, at *2 (N.D.
8 Cal. 2006) (Where “the parties reach a settlement before a class is certified, ‘a more 9 probing inquiry’ into whether a proposed settlement is fair, adequate, and reasonable is 10 required.”). Here, not only was the class certified by the Court for many years before it 11 was recently decertified, even after another motion to decertify had been denied, but the 12 parties and the Court also had the benefit of rulings on three (3) summary judgment 13 motions, in addition to extensive trial workup, including drafting of memoranda of facts 14 and contentions of law, motions in limine, jury instructions, and a proposed pretrial order.
15 Thus, there is not only substantial evidence in the record to justify the Settlement, but in 16 fact considerably more than exists in most settlements.

17 C. Class Notice Comports with Fed. R. Civ. P. 23 and Due Process

18 Rule 23 and due process require that the settlement class receive the best notice 19 practicable reasonably calculated under the circumstances, which the parties clearly 20 provided here. Indeed, in the Preliminary Approval Order, this Court approved the class 21 notice as to form and content, and found that the regular mailing of the class notice to 22 settlement class members according to the contact information provided by Defendant 23 substantially met the requirements of Rule 23 and due process, and was the best notice 24 practicable under the circumstances. See Dkt. Nos. 352, p.6; 353, pp.4-5.

25 The class notice informed settlement class members of the nature of the Settlement 26 and: (1) their right to receive their Settlement payment, and the basis on which the payment 27 will be calculated; (2) their right to opt-out of the Settlement; (3) their right to object to 28 the Settlement or to Plaintiffs’ Motion for Attorneys’ Fees, Costs, and Incentive Awards;

1 (4) the language of the release; and (5) individual settlement class members' number of 2 work weeks. See Cofinco Decl., Dkt No. 358-2, ¶6, and Exhibit B thereto. Settlement class 3 members had until January 11, 2019 to opt out or object to the Settlement and/or the 4 motion for fees, costs, and incentive awards.

5 The parties and the settlement administrator followed the schedule for the settlement 6 process approved by the Court—including dissemination of the class notice. Defendant 7 timely provided the settlement administrator with the Class list. As noted above, the 8 settlement administrator mailed the Settlement Notice to the 12,141 individuals on the 9 Class list by December 12, 2018. After forwarding and re-mailing the notice as warranted, 10 only 135 class notices were not delivered; thus, the class notice process was successful in 11 delivering nearly 98.9% of the class notice mailings, an extraordinary result, especially 12 when considering that the Class period extends back over fifteen years, to 2003.

13 Additionally, the settlement administrator established a secure website containing 14 information about the Settlement, including copies of the class notice, Settlement 15 Agreement, and fee motion in its entirety (including all declarations and exhibits) so that 16 all settlement class members would have easy access to it at least fourteen days prior to 17 the objection/exclusion deadline. Finally, the settlement administrator maintained a toll-18 free number and provided information via telephone to settlement class members inquiring 19 about the Settlement. Cofinco Decl., Dkt. No. 358-2, ¶¶3-4, 15-16.

20 In short, the manner in which notice was provided was the best notice practicable 21 and reasonably calculated under the circumstances to apprise settlement class members of 22 the Settlement and to give them the chance to be heard. Given the positive results, the class 23 notice process met or exceeded the requirements of Rule 23 and satisfies due process.

24 D. The Settlement Is the Result of Good-Faith, Arm's-Length Negotiations

25 The parties reached this agreement after nearly eleven years of litigation, 26 investigation, discovery, motion practice, full trial preparation, and mediation. This 27 prolonged process reflects the zealous efforts of Class Counsel to champion the interests 28

1 of the settlement class. The mediations were facilitated by Mark Rudy, a highly regarded 2 class action employment law mediator, further demonstrating the non-collusive nature of 3 the Settlement. See In re Bluetooth Headset Prods. Liab. Litig., 654 F.3d 935, 948 (9th Cir.
4 2011); see also Feyko v. aAD Partners LP, 2014 WL 12572678, at *7 (C.D. Cal. 2014)
5 (“Settlements reached with the help of a mediator are likely non-collusive.”)

6 Moreover, the Settlement bears no signs of collusion or irreconcilable conflicts.
7 Instead, it follows extensive arms-length negotiations and due notice to the settlement 8 class. Settlement class members will receive significant monetary awards from a non-9 reversionary common fund Settlement with no cy pres component, and they will receive 10 this money despite the fact that the Court decertified the class shortly before trial, calling 11 into question whether they would have received anything at all absent settlement. Further, 12 Class Counsel will not receive a disproportionate share of the Settlement or any separate 13 payment of attorneys’ fees, so the interests of Class Counsel coincide precisely with the 14 interests of the settlement class.

15 In sum, the parties entered into the Settlement in good faith, only after arm’s-length 16 negotiations without collusion, warranting a presumption in favor of approval. Officers for 18 E. The Settlement Is Fair, Reasonable, and Adequate

19 In evaluating the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of a class settlement, courts 20 consider and balance a number of factors, including: “the strength of the plaintiffs’ case; 21 the risk, expense, complexity, and likely duration of further litigation; the risk of 22 maintaining class action status throughout the trial; the amount offered in settlement; the 23 extent of discovery completed and the stage of the proceedings; the experience and views 24 of counsel; the presence of a governmental participant; and the reaction of the class 25 members to the proposed settlement.” Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1026 (9th 26 Cir. 1998) (citing Torrison, 8 F.3d at 1375).

27 Under each of these factors, the Settlement easily warrants this Court’s approval.
28

1 1. The Strength of Plaintiffs’ Case Supports Final Approval

2 As stated above, there can be no debate that in the years this case has been pending, 3 several critical decisions have dramatically altered the legal landscape in employment 4 class actions, and class actions in general. Courts have certainly taken note of the same, 5 recognizing that “there is little doubt that, as a result of” decisions such as Wal-Mart Stores,
6 Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338 (2011) and Brinker Restaurant Corp. v. Sup. Ct., 53 Cal. 4th 7 1004 (2012), “plaintiffs face increased difficulties in winning wage-and-hour class action 8 lawsuits.” Adoma v. University of Phoenix, Inc., 2012 WL 6651141, at *7 (E.D. Cal. 2012).
9 With these decisions at their back, Defendant vigorously litigated the underlying merits of 10 the action past the pretrial conference and until the eve of trial, which itself weighs in favor 11 of approval. See Eddings v. Health Net, Inc., 2013 WL 3013867, at *3 (C.D. Cal. 2013) 12 (finding that, in a complex wage and hour class action where the defendant engaged in 13 vigorous litigation, this factor weighs in favor of settlement approval). Indeed, Defendant 14 prevailed on its motion to decertify the class approximately six weeks before trial, and 15 therefore the settlement class would have recovered nothing unless, at minimum, Plaintiffs 16 ultimately prevailed on appeal of that ruling.

17 Moreover, Plaintiffs also faced Defendant’s arguments that federal law preempted 18 Plaintiffs’ claims. To be sure, in 2014 the Court found that the Federal Aviation 19 Administration Authorization Act of 1994 preempted Plaintiffs’ claims, and entered 20 judgment against them, including entry of a substantial taxable cost award in favor of 21 Defendant. While Plaintiffs ultimately were successful in their appeal, Defendant made 22 clear in its pretrial filings that it intended to attempt to re-litigate the issue at trial.
23 Additionally, Defendant argued that the Motor Carrier Safety Act of 1984 preempts 24 Plaintiffs’ meal and rest break claims, which Defendant asserted as an affirmative defense 25 and indicated that it also intended to raise at trial. Importantly, as discussed above, the 26 FCMSA recently reversed its own prior order and position on the preemption issue, and 27 opined that the law does, in fact, preempt California’s meal and rest break laws.
28

1 Therefore, Plaintiffs’ case was certainly a difficult one. If Defendant were to prevail
2 on one or more defenses at trial or on appeal, Plaintiffs and settlement class members 3 would recover little or nothing. Given the constantly evolving state of the law and the 4 constant threats to the maintenance of the claims on a class action basis, the settlement 5 now presented for final approval is even more exceptional.

6 2. The Risk, Expense, Complexity, and Likely Duration of Further 7 Litigation Weigh in Favor of Settlement Approval

8 As evidenced by the fact that this case was litigated for nearly eleven years, it 9 involved novel and evolving issues as to whether and to what extent settlement class 10 members were entitled to wages and work breaks. Although the trial was imminent at the 11 time of settlement, continued litigation of these issues would be slow and costly. In fact, 12 settlement class members would receive nothing unless Plaintiffs won at trial on their 13 individual claims, ultimately prevailed on their appeal of the order decertifying the class, 14 and on remand, prevailed at the trial of the class-wide claims—a process that would take 15 a minimum of two to three years. Defendant’s almost certain appeal of any such rulings 16 would complicate and further delay any relief to settlement class members. Such appeals 17 would almost certainly further delay final resolution by at least another four to five years.

18 Fortunately, the non-reversionary Settlement provides cash payments to members 19 of the settlement class without the substantial risks and inevitable delays of further 20 litigation. See Campbell v. First Inv’rs Corp., 2012 WL 5373423, at *5 (S.D. Cal. 2012) 21 (recognizing that the process of establishing entitlement to damages and the potential for 22 delay and appeals weighed in favor of settlement approval).

23 3. The Risk of Maintaining Class Action Status through Trial
24 Supports Final Approval.

25 This factor weighs heavily in favor of final approval because this “risk” was actually 26 realized when the Court decertified the class, and yet the parties negotiated a class-wide 27 Settlement that provides substantial cash payments to settlement class members.

1 4. The Amount Offered in Settlement Supports Final Approval

2 Defendant will pay $15,000,000.00, less approved deductions, to 12,132 current and 3 former drivers. Each settlement class member will receive a gross settlement payment of 4 approximately $800 per year, which is a sizeable recovery and a meaningful share of his 5 or her actual losses.

6 That amount of the Settlement is unquestionably substantial, and as Plaintiffs 7 explained in detail in the Motion for Preliminary Approval, represents approximately a 8 30% recovery of the total estimated recoverable damages at issue in the case. See Dkt. No.
9 347, pp.9-12. As relevant here, “the Court’s inquiry ‘is not whether the final product could 10 be prettier, smarter or snazzier, but whether it is fair, adequate and free from collusion.’” 11 Ross v. Trex Co., Inc., 2013 WL 6622919, at *4 (N.D. Cal. 2013) (quoting Hanlon, 150 12 F.3d at 1027); see also In re Omnivision Techs., Inc., 559 F.Supp.2d 1036, 1042 (N.D. Cal.
13 2008) (approving settlement in which the class received payments totaling 6% of potential 14 damages).

15 5. The Extent of Discovery Completed and the Stage of the 16 Proceedings Supports Final Approval

17 When litigation has advanced to the point where “the parties have sufficient 18 information to make an informed decision about settlement,” this factor weighs in favor 19 of approval. See Linney v. Cellular Alaska P’ship, 151 F.3d 1234, 1239 (9th Cir. 1998).
20 Here, the parties settled the case on the eve of trial, after litigating this case for almost 21 eleven years, and after all discovery was completed—including expert discovery and 22 reports. This discovery was so extensive that the National eDiscovery Counsel for one of 23 the law firms representing Defendant characterized the data produced as a “monumental 24 amount of data.” See Weiner Decl., Dkt. No. 264-12 (also attesting that “I have never been 25 involved in a case where such a massive volume of electronic data was collected, culled 26 and produced to an adversary in such a short period of time”). Thus, the parties had 27 extensive information about all relevant issues, and, as demonstrated by the competing 28 motions for summary judgment filed in June and July of 2018, they were able to analyze

1 the strengths and weaknesses of their respective positions.

2 For these reasons, the extent of discovery and the advanced stage of proceedings 3 decisively support final approval of the Settlement. See Rodriguez v. West Publishing 4 Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 967 (9th Cir. 2009) (this factor weighed in favor of settlement 5 approval where the parties had conducted extensive discovery and gone through a round 6 of summary judgment motions).

7 6. The Views of Experienced Counsel Support Final Approval

8 “Great weight is accorded to the recommendation of counsel, who are most closely 9 acquainted with the facts of the underlying litigation.” Nat’l Rural Telecom. Coop. v.
10 DIRECTV, Inc., 221 F.R.D. 523, 528 (C.D. Cal. 2004) (quotation omitted). Courts 11 recognize that “[a] presumption of fairness, adequacy, and reasonableness may attach to a 12 class settlement reached in arm’s length negotiations between experienced, capable 13 counsel after meaningful discovery.” Kirkorian v. Borelli, 695 F. Supp. 446, 451 (N.D.
14 Cal. 1988). In this case, Class Counsel are highly skilled in class action litigation, as their 15 several declarations filed in connection with the motions for preliminary approval and for 16 fees, costs, and incentive awards, amply demonstrate. See Dkt. Nos. 358-1, 6; 356-1, 6, 9.
17 They have all participated in this litigation for many years, they have actively devoted 18 themselves to the steps needed to keep the case moving forward, they have evaluated the 19 pending Settlement at length, and they have concluded that the proposed Settlement offers 20 excellent benefits to settlement class members under the circumstances. Additionally, 21 Defendant was represented by two well-respected, national law firms in negotiating this 22 Settlement, which further supports its fairness, adequacy, and reasonableness.

23 7. The Government Participant Factor Supports Final Approval

24 No government entity participated in this case, but the Settlement allocates 25 $500,000 to the PAGA claims, with 75% of that amount to be paid to the LWDA pursuant 26 to Labor Code § 2699(l). This amount is well above amounts allocated and approved in 27 most other cases. See McKenzie v. Fed. Express Corp., 2012 WL 12882124, at *5 (C.D.
28

1 Cal. 2012). Furthermore, PAGA penalties in this case would be largely duplicative of 2 monies already provided under the Settlement, and thus the PAGA allocation here 3 recognizes that any PAGA award is within the Court’s broad discretion. Importantly, 4 Plaintiffs provided the required notice to the LWDA of the settlement allocation, and the 5 LWDA did not indicate any opposition thereto. Saltzman Decl., Dkt. No. 358-1, ¶3.

6 8. The Reaction of the Settlement Class Supports Final Approval

7 Not one of the 12,141 settlement class members objected to the Settlement, and the 8 absence of objections to a proposed class action settlement supports the assertion that the 9 settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate. See National Rural Telecom. Coop, 221 F.R.D.
10 at 529. Also demonstrating the high level of support for the Settlement, only nine drivers, 11 representing 0.03% of the settlement class, exercised their right to opt-out of the 12 Settlement. Accordingly, this factor also decisively favors final approval of the Settlement.

13 IV. THE PARTIES REQUEST THAT THE COURT TENTATIVELY GRANT 14 FINAL APPROVAL OF THE SETTLEMENT, BUT DELAY ENTRY OF THE 15 FINAL APPROVAL ORDER PENDING EXPIRATION OF THE CLASS
16 ACTION FAIRNESS ACT’S STATUTORY NOTICE PERIOD

17 Section 1715(b) of the Class Action Fairness Act of 2005 (“CAFA”) provides that 18 “not later than 10 days after a proposed settlement of a class action is filed in court, each 19 defendant that is participating in the proposed settlement shall serve upon the appropriate 20 State official of each State in which a class member resides and the appropriate Federal 21 official, a notice of the proposed settlement.....” 28 U.S.C. § 1715(b). Section 1715(d) 22 states that a Court may not issue an order granting final approval of a proposed settlement 23 “earlier than 90 days after the later of the dates on which the appropriate Federal official 24 and the appropriate State official are served with the notice.” 28 U.S.C. § 1715(b).

25 Due to an oversight caused by the accelerated settlement process, Defendant did not 26 serve the required notice as required by § 1715(b) until January 16, 2019. See Defendant’s 27 Statement of Service, Dkt. No. 357. Therefore, although the final fairness hearing is set 28 for February 11, 2019, the 90-day notice period will not expire until April 16, 2018.

1 Accordingly, rather than further delaying relief to the settlement class members who 2 have overwhelmingly supported the Settlement and who have waited up to 15 years for 3 reimbursement of wages allegedly withheld from them, the parties propose that the Court 4 proceed forward with the final fairness hearing on February 11, 2019 as set forth in the 5 class notice, issue a tentative order granting final approval assuming that the Court agrees 6 the settlement merits the same, but delay entry of the final approval order until April 17, 7 2018. On that date, the parties will jointly file a notice apprising the Court whether any 8 State or Federal official has responded to the CAFA Notice.

9 If, as the parties anticipate, they receive no response from any State or Federal 10 official by April 17, 2019,² the Court can then enter the final approval order on that date.
11 If the parties do receive a response that requires Court review, they will then propose a 12 briefing schedule and hearing date for the Court's consideration.

13 Importantly, this procedure would not require additional class notice. Under the 14 terms of the Settlement, had CAFA notice been sent on time and assuming the Court entered 15 the final approval order after the final fairness hearing on February 11, 2019, the Settlement 16 funds were to be distributed beginning 58 days thereafter, or on April 10, 2019. See 17 Settlement Agreement, Dkt. No. 347-2, §§2.1.8, 2.5.1, 2.12.1. Under the modified schedule 18 proposed by the parties, assuming the Court enters the final approval order on April 17, 19 2018, Defendant has agreed to fund the Settlement within seven (7) days thereafter, and 20 funds would be distributed beginning just after April 24, 2019. Thus, the distribution of 21 funds to settlement class members would be delayed by only fourteen days, whereas re-

22
23
24
25 ² Class Counsel has been involved in dozens of settlements in wage and hour cases since 26 CAFA was enacted in 2005, and no State or Federal official has ever responded to a CAFA 27 notice in any of its cases, be they large or small, including settlements in excess of one 28 hundred million dollars. There is no reason to believe that this non-reversionary, non-claims made Settlement, affording considerable relief to the decertified class, would be any different. See Saltzman Decl., Dkt. No. 357-1, ¶4.

1 setting the final approval hearing until after the CAFA notice period expires in April would 2 unduly delay the payments to the settlement class members.

3 Finally, this proposed schedule would not require the Court to continue the current 4 February 19, 2019 trial date. Indeed, if the Court holds the fairness hearing as scheduled 5 on February 11, 2019, it can determine at that time whether the Settlement is fair, adequate, 6 and reasonable in its discretion based on the substantial record before it. If the Court finds 7 that the Settlement tentatively warrants approval subject to the response of State and 8 Federal officials, the Court can then take the trial date off calendar and re-set it in the future 9 in the unlikely event that a CAFA response renders the Settlement fatally deficient, or it 10 can continue the existing trial date to a new date following the April 17, 2019 expiration of 11 the CAFA notice period.

12 V. CONCLUSION

13 For the reasons discussed above, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court: (a) 14 find that the Settlement is fair, adequate, and reasonable; (b) enter the proposed Final 15 Approval Order (Dkt. No. 358-3) and proposed Final Judgment (Dkt. No. 358-4) pending 16 receipt of notice from the parties on April 17, 2019 that no State or Federal official has 17 responded to CAFA notice; (c) approve the pending motion for fees, costs, and incentive 18 awards; (d) either strike the February 19, 2019 trial date, or continue it to a date after the 19 CAFA notice period expires on April 16, 2019; and (e) grant any other relief the Court 20 deems just.
